VOL. III. NO. 85. CHICAGO, FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1897. PRICE, 5 CTS

THE ELECTION AND RACING.

Ten statistics of Tuesday's local elective expression ought to convey an object lesson of the broad, large kind to men who have legislative votes and are in executive corners of the city of Chicago and the State of Illinois. Mr. Harrison, on a platform which declared for liberality in the administration of public affairs in Chicago, was given more votes than all the other candidates of all the other parties. He dragged a group of candidates that were lower than the average with him. The public voice ought to be instructive to public men. Tuesday's voice was both shrill and clear for Chicago, as Chicago was under Mr. Harrison's father's keen hand—a good town; a liberal town and a town that suited the folks that lived in it. It was at the same time a less lawless town than that in which we live in these days of curs. The administration which is displaced by last Tuesday's vote, has been narrow, furtive and fatheaded.

It and its clumsy side issues cost Chicago many millions of dollars. The local merchants in sharp lines can furnish the figures. The spirit that controlled the fatheaded local administration also governed the Illinois legislature and helped to kill Chicago racing since 1894. Local quarrels among racing people was one of the illegitimate influences brought to bear on the mean, narrow and not particularly honest confederacy which shaped local and state legislative action in opposition to public opinion.

Last Tuesday's vote tells in letters of more than the usual size what the people of Chicago want.

Mr. Harrison's idea about municipal liberality, on the edge of the endorsement, about what he considered Chicago needed was almost that of a political genius, Chicago isn't a "wide open" town. It was, in the World's Fair year. But that was the year of a century. Chicago is, though, a great town. It is full of clean men. It is full of men, too, who think that, unless out of line with the law of the land, their fellows should be allowed to do as they choose.

Anti-racing legislation cost Illinois $15,000,000 in 1895 and $25,000,000 in 1896. Such legislation was condemned by Tuesday's voice of the people. Mr. Harrison declared for the Chicago of Carter Harrison, his father, before his election. He declared for such an intelligently governed town after his election. The Chicago of Carter Harrison I was a well governed Chicago, a prosperous Chicago, and a sensibly controlled Chicago. That is the Chicago in the eye of every good citizen of Chicago. The narrowness of the last three years has driven $100,000,000 away from the greatest city in America. Mercantile corners can give the exact figures, by comparison between 1894 and 1896.

There are bills before the Illinois legislature. Others are in hiding. The main proposition is about the term of racing. The prohibition of racing since 1894 has been costly to the city. It needs a well-made, fair law that will control and regulate. Such a law should be broad enough to embrace all the interests in horse breeding and using in Illinois and not made for one division of horsedom.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

So far a license has not been issued to W. C. Daly by the Jockey Club stewards and the Hartford Sage may have had the necessary hook prepared for him.

J. B., Chicago.—H. Brown, the boy who rides for W. D. Randall at San Francisco, is a small black boy without much experience as a rider.

T. M. E., Milwaukee, Wis.—There will be a foreign book at Forsyth. The meeting will run fifteen days.

Newport is scheduled by the gossips to run until May 22 and conflict with Lexington and Louisville. So far it is mere gossip.

O'Connell is at work again after a keen firing and turn out.
